JOIN The Steamship Historical Society of America

IN 1935, AMATEUR AND PROFESSIONAL HISTORIANS interested in the history of the engine-powered vessels that forever changed the world of travel and commerce formed The Steamship Historical Society of America (SSHSA).

With the invention of steam-powered ships, people were able to establish and maintain reliable schedules and transport people and materials economically. Maritime navigation moved from wind to power — steam, petroleum and nuclear power.

Today, with extensive collections of maritime photos, periodicals, artwork, official records, memorabilia and ephemera, SSHSA, a tax-exempt educational organization, is the oldest and largest organization of its kind in the world.

JOIN THE THOUSANDS of maritime history enthusiasts who prize their membership in the Steamship Historical Society of America.
